PERSONAL STATEMENT

I am a practical, down – to - earth person, with good organizational skills who has the ability to achieve results on time. I am also very logical, with an excellent grasp of mathematics and underlying engineering principles while possessing the design flair and creativity necessary for product design, manufacture and marketing. I am bilingual in Chinese and English and can work well as a 'team player' in the office and other educational environments. I have won awards for my designs at secondary level.
